

CollabForum

Low-cost, quick-to-launch, project-based collaborations

The Inventures CollabForum is a not-for-profit organization leveraging Inventures' best practices and knowledge base of more than 25 years in supporting and engaging technology ecosystems to:

- Validate technology solution approaches
- Execute pilot projects
- Transfer assets and intellectual property from existing collaborations
- Facilitate interoperability testing/demonstration
- Create specifications
- Develop reference implementations

Value Delivered

CollabForum provides a low-barrier to entry, scalable and project-focused organization for collaboration and innovation enabling companies to quickly leverage the strategic value of technology development.

Facilitating cross-company and industry collaboration is the primary goal. Project-based collaborations of every size benefit from our turnkey approach with an established infrastructure, policies and procedures that allows a fast start-up and guides projects to full operation.

The CollabForum also offers a low-cost place to transfer organizational assets including specifications and IPR for organizations looking to sunset or scale-back.

Membership Features and Benefits

- Start any number and type of new project and selectively participate in existing projects
- Unlimited use of collaboration portal and tools
- Standardized project/program management, marketing and other support services included
- Maximum flexibility to fine-tune projects to specific goals, support and/or resource needs
- Truly neutral playing field and full independence from any particular open-source community, structure or repository

Joining the CollabForum is a simple process with a standard membership agreement and low-cost, flat annual fee. In addition, there are two optional offerings:

- Per project-specific fees to participate in any number of projects
- Board level, to steer and govern the direction of the organization

Join the CollabForum

Inventures Advantage

Inventures offers companies, standard-setting organizations, and user/development communities access to the world's pre-eminent technology community professionals and solutions. We help you advance emerging and existing technologies by creating and managing ecosystems, driving stakeholder collaboration and building new markets. Whatever your goals, we can provide a customizable set of resources that are unmatched in the industry, and our business practices and approaches provide the expertise, speed, and leverage to help your organization achieve its vision.

